

Mark Alker Stone

Architect / Director

aww

Having worked in excess of 15 years as a chartered architect for both public and private sector clients Mark's specialism led him, as Director at aww, to champion the commercial office sector.

Mark has a key responsibility in promoting the highest quality and standards of office design throughout the practise, encouraging innovative and sustainable solutions that look to challenge and evolve the modern workplace.

He has worked alongside occupiers, developers and funds designing and delivering large scale commercial projects, creating in excess of 40,000sqm of work space in a single building. The knowledge and interest he has gained enables him to provide support to the BCO, with participation on the South West and Wales regional chapter and judging panel.
