

Michael Broadhead BSc (Hons) MRICS, MCIOB, MAPM

Projects Director

Muse Developments

Michael joined Muse Developments (formerly Amec Developments) in 2002. He benefits from a wide range of experience in all aspects of property development gained from a large commercial developer in the UK. Working from the northern office, latterly as Projects Director of the company, he is involved in commercial and mixed-use development. He has played a principal role on many of the company's major office developments throughout the north of England.

He is responsible for project delivery through from implementation to occupation and sale generally involving tenants and institutional investors. Michael is currently heading up the project management function for English Cities Fund at St Pauls Square; the new central business district in Liverpool and also the regeneration project at Doncaster Waterdale, the new Civil and Cultural Quarter within the town. In 2000, he was Projects Director for the BCO Award winning office scheme at Princes Exchange, Leeds.
